Willis moves back to receiver to compliment the talents of Derek Stein and JaTwai Black, who both were top receivers the previous year. The return of Samy Yousuf and Robert Dames should make this receiving corp very dangerous. In addition, the Patriots add the talents of Mike Girby, and a few other newcomers to the fold such as Chase Redman, Anthony Bedward and Adam Chamberlain. The team will try to fill the running back slots with new incoming talent to go along with Steven Muskett and T.J. Singh(Ghumman). Sean Somlal looks to get opportunities as well carrying the ball for the Patriots. Matt Sexton returns for the Patriots to hold down the quarterback position. He will have a host of talent to throw to this season. The Offensive Line will be lead by Ray Niederhausen. The anchor the offensive line started every game last season and is anxious to teach the newcomers on the line. Gibby Vo, a transfer from Radford, looks to help out on the line while versatile veteran, Bryan Lopez looks to solidify the line with the help of Jacob Wilcox.

On Defense, the Patriots look strong with the return of team leading tackler, Jordan Jackson, sack leader Ransom Kline, and interception leader Andrew Babin. The defensive line is young but retains the talents of Mike Ayeni and Bryan Lopez. Returning after a year off from injury is Billy Nguyen who looks to own the middle of the line of scrimmage along with Bao Nguyen. Newcomers Ryan Sepulveda and Mark Oswald show great promise for the front line. Lou LePore, and Gene Anderson look to round out the linebacking core. They will be helped by Ezra Walker and Peter Elias. The secondary will return Luigi Fernandez and Ryan Stewart at the corner positions to compliment Babin in a strong secondary. Braylan Pozo comes in to help at the other safety position to round out the secondary with the help of newcomer Travis Swaggard.

Kevin Chung looks to make a difference as a kicker again this year while expanding his team role to the offense as a wide receiver as well. A strong kicker on the season, he will look to improve his game all around.
