“Given the fact that we have had two weeks from our win against Eastern, the anticipation and excitement has been palpable.

It has been our goal all year to be hardworking, focused, tough in mind and body and disciplined, to that extent we have accomplished our goal.

But as Game Day approaches we know our mission will not be complete without the Ultimate Prize.

We are glad to be facing such a tough opponent, that brings out the best in us. After all, isn't that what this is all about?

Our fans and Boosters have been so supportive this entire season and are planning to be in West Virginia this Saturday, they are our motivation.

Big Game? The biggest!”

NCSA & NCBA Spring Training Registration Ends December 16th!

CollClubSports and the National Club Baseball & Softball Associations are excited to announce that they have signed with the Tampa Bay Sports Commission to bring the 2017 NCBA/NCSA Spring Training Showcase back to Tampa, FL. This will be the twelfth year that two organizations have partnered to host the annual outing. After a record-setting 70 teams attended the 2016 event at Mike Sansone Park in Plant City, FL, anticipation for the 2017 Spring Training Showcase is already building.

“The Spring Training Showcase is a great way for teams to get a jump start on their competitive spring season and get those new players some experience before the start of your spring conference games” says Savannah Ahrens, VP of Spring Training Operations. “What better way to start your spring season, than playing baseball/softball and having a great Florida Spring Break all in one!”

Baseball teams committed to coming this year include:

North Dakota State University	Robert Morris University
Lafayette College	Michigan Tech
Iowa State University	Central Michigan University
Illinois State University	Southern Illinois University – Edwardsville
Appalachian State University	North Carolina State University
University of Kentucky	Minnesota State University – Moorhead
Purdue University	University of Toledo
University of Massachusetts	Minnesota State University – Mankato
University of Florida DI & DII	Virginia Tech
University of Tennessee – Chattanooga	Ohio University
SUNY – Brockport	South Dakota State University
University of Cincinnati	Bowling Green State University
Bloomsburg University	George Mason University
University of Wisconsin DI & DII	University of Iowa
University of Kansas	Indiana University
Northwestern University	University of Wisconsin—Madison
Kent State University

“As a former player in the NCBA, going to the Spring Training Showcase was always my favorite road trip every year,” says Alex Kane, Director of New Team Development. “It’s a week off from school playing baseball with some of your best friends and going to the beach. You really can’t ask for much more! Now as a member of the NCBA front office, I highly encourage that all teams make the trip. You don’t want to miss out on this great opportunity and memories that will last a lifetime.”

Registration for this event ends December 16th!!!

NCBBA Team Spotlight: University of Massachusetts - Lowell

Like many club sports in campus recreation, the UMass Lowell's team was started for the love of basketball. Founders Danny Meas and Matthew Torrisi found themselves at the Campus Recreation Center almost every day playing pick up or participating in intramural leagues. Soon, Danny and Matt knew they wanted to compete at a higher level, which led them to forming their club team with the help of Club Coordinator Nicholas Lowery in 2013.

Since then, the UML team has seen great success. "UMass Lowell Men's Club Basketball is going on its fourth year of being active and is only getting stronger" says captain Danny Meas. "Last season, we joined the NCBBA and made it all the way to Nationals in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Only three years as a club program, and making Nationals the first year joining an official league was a huge accomplishment for the team and University." Danny has now passed the coaching torch over to Fredny Laporte for the 2016-2017 season.

Looking forward, competing teams should be on the lookout for Danny Meas, Kennedy Asare, and David Kazadi as they have been named as key players for the UMass Lowell team — and according to the team, their biggest target is Goodwin College. Having a tied record last year, UML knew they had to get past them to get to the National Championships in Pittsburgh. However, with the new realignment of the New England Conference, we will see if that rivalry stands.

The Riverhawks are definitely not regretting their choice to join the NCBBA and are aiming for an undefeated season and a national title: "We know how we ended our season last year," says their Meas. "Let's not settle for just a win. Let's stay hungry and strive for a national title because we are a high caliber team. Never settle for less." The NCBBA looks forward to seeing UMass Lowell play!

THE SCOUTING REPORT

It was an exciting weekend of baseball down in Greenville, South Carolina the weekend of November 11th. Twelve teams traveled to Conestee Park. After battling some unpredicted weather, the tournament came down to the final four: Eastern Kentucky, Georgia Southern, William & Mary, and Elon. But it was Elon that defeated William & Mary in the final game to claim the title for the second year in a row.

"It was a very successful weekend that saw a lot of great baseball," says Eric Curitore, Director of DII Baseball and tournament coordinator. "I hope all the teams got a lot out of their games throughout the weekend that will ultimately help them when it counts in the spring. Elon deserves all the credit for taking home their 2nd straight title, though props to Georgia Southern and William & Mary as well. Both teams were very impressive all weekend. I expect big things from each team in the spring. I appreciate all the teams making the trip this year and especially helping us work around rain for the 1st time in 5
